

A large, purple and orange dragon with a long, spiky neck and large, bat-like wings is breathing a powerful stream of fire. The dragon is positioned in the center of the frame, with its head lowered towards a group of adventurers at the bottom. The adventurers are wearing various types of armor, including plate armor and chainmail, and are holding weapons like swords and spears. The background is a dark, rocky landscape with some icicles hanging from the top right. The overall scene is dramatic and action-packed.

ARCANAMITE

Beautiful to look at, horrific to come across,

Arcanamites scuttle through the deep places of the world, creating massive hive networks that stretch for miles. Drawn to magical energy, they nest closely to area rich in arcane power, draining the region dry. Magic bounces harmlessly from Arcanamites as they swarm around their targets, burrowing into them with razor-sharp pincers and needle beaks.

ARCANAMITE

Challenge 1 (200 XP)

Magic Scent. The arcanamite can pinpoint, by scent, the location of a creature that can cast spells within 60 feet of it.

Reflective Carapace. Any time the arcanamite is targeted by a magic missile spell, a line spell, or a spell that requires a ranged attack roll, roll a d6. On a 1 to 5, the arcanamite is unaffected. On a 6, the arcanamite is unaffected, and the effect is reflected back at the caster as though it originated from the arcanamite, turning the caster into the target.

ACTIONS

Bite. Melee Weapon Attack: +4 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 4 (1d4 + 2) piercing damage, and the arcanamite can attach itself to the target. The arcanamite can be removed if a creature takes an action and succeeds on a DC 15 Strength check against it. The arcanamite detaches if it takes fire damage. Until the arcanamite detaches, it can't bite another target.

Leech Magic. If the arcanamite is attached to a creature with spell slots, roll a d4. The target loses a spell slot of that level, or the next highest level if it has no spell slots of that level. If the arcanamite has leeched a number of spell slots with a combined level of 8 or more, it detaches from the creature.

Prized Possession. Partially made of arcane-infused gem, an Arcanamite's carapace is valuable to spellcasters and rare jewelcrafters. Expeditions to Arcanamite hives, While dangerous, can provide a fortuitous haul. Spellcasters will sometimes attempt to capture an Arcanamite alive, using it as a defender or to harry other arcane-users.

Swarm Fighters. Arcanamites sense arcane energy, moving to the most potent source first. They use needle-like barbs to latch onto their target, draining arcane energy. Arcanamites are rarely alone, living and fighting in large swarms. Once they sense magic energy, Arcanamites rush toward their target, ignoring the attacks and magic that bounce off of their resistant shell.

Dangerous Friends. Arcanamites that are kept by lords and spellcasters are not trustworthy pets. Unless an adequate amount of arcane energy is given, Arcanamites Will attempt to kill their captors, draining them of their magic or return to their hive.

Addictive Qualities. The sensation left by Arcanamite draining is both painful but highly stimulating. Occasionally, spellcasters who experience this effect grow dependent of it. Aracanamites will remain latched on a target for years, draining arcane energy from their host While the victim is lost in the experience.

Challenge 7 (2,900 XP)

Spellcasting. The enchanter is a 9th-level spellcaster. Its spellcasting ability is Charisma (save DC 14, +6 to hit with spell attacks). The enchanter knows the following sorcerer spells:

Cantrips (at will): blade ward, light, mage hand, message, prestidigitation

1st level (4 slots): charm person, mage armor, shield

2nd level (3 slots): hold person, suggestion

3rd level (3 slots): counterspell, dispel magic

4th level (3 slots): confusion, dominate beast

5th level (1 slots): dominate person

ACTIONS

Mind Lash. Ranged Spell Attack: +6 to hit, range 30/60 ft., one creature. Hit: 11 (2d10) psychic damage and the creature has disadvantage on Wisdom saving throws until the end of the enchanter's next turn.

REACTIONS

Invoke Doubt. If the enchanter is the target of an attack and can see the attacker, it imposes disadvantage on the attack roll.

5th level (2 slots): dominate person, seeming

6th level (1 slots): mass suggestion

7th level (1 slots): prismatic spray

ACTIONS

Melt Mind. Ranged Spell Attack: +9 to hit, range 60/120 ft., one creature. Hit: 16 (3d10) psychic damage, and the creature must succeed on a DC 17 Wisdom saving throw or become stunned until the end of the mind sculptor's next turn.

Pacify. The mind sculptor targets one creature that it can see within 60 feet of it. The target must succeed on a DC 17 Wisdom saving throw or be magically charmed. The charmed creature can't attack or otherwise harm another creature. The target can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on itself on a success. The mind sculptor can have only one target charmed at a time in this way. If it charms another, the effect on the previous target ends.

ACTIONS

Bite. Melee Weapon Attack: +4 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 2 (1d4) acid damage.

Bone Golem

A Bone Golem is the defiled abomination of animated skeletons crafted into a singular entity that desires nothing more than to add more material to its hideous form. Similar to other golems, Bone Golems serve the commands of their masters, following them with disturbing ferocity and precision. Sharing traits with its lesser skeletal counterparts, Bone Golems do not try to damage themselves to reach a goal, instead resorting to try a door handle rather than harm themselves by breaking through it.

Necromancers who have created these monstrosities also have the presence of mind to make the Bone Golem itself a master of bone. Capable of gathering bones together into a prison for its victims, Bone Golems serve adeptly as guards of ancient tombs or its master's personal studies.

An empty shell driven by negative energy, the many heads of the Bone Golem still quietly whisper with the pain and suffering of those used to create the construct. Faint screams and cry echo from Bone Golems.

“

At first we scoffed as the bones rattled, then when the entire pile rose, we fled – the screams of the overconfident filling the air behind us.”

– Kendrick Hihn Thief of the Black Nine

Challenge 9 (5,000 XP)

Immutable Form. The golem is immune to any spell or effect that would alter its form.

Magic Resistance. The golem has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Magic Weapons. The golem's weapon attacks are magical.

ACTIONS

Multiattack. The golem makes two slam attacks.

Slam. Melee Weapon Attack: +8 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 18 (3d8 + 5) bludgeoning damage.

Bone Prison. The golem targets one creature it can see within 60 feet of it. A prison of magical bones surrounds the creature. The target must make a DC 15 Dexterity saving throw or become restrained. The restrained creature can break free by succeeding on a DC 20 escape check, or by destroying the bone prison (AC 20; 50 hit points; immunity to poison and psychic damage). The golem can only have one bone prison active at a time. It may dismiss the bone prison as a bonus action.

Breath Weapons (Recharge 5-6). The dragon uses one of the following breath weapons.

Fire Tar Breath. The dragon sprays flaming tar in a 30-foot cone. Each creature in that area must make a DC 18 Dexterity saving throw, taking 35 (10d6) fire damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. On a failed save, a creature is restrained (escape DC 18). While restrained in this way, a creature takes 10 (3d6) fire damage at the start of each of its turns.

Knockout Gas Breath. The dragon exhales knockout gas in a 60-foot cone. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 18 Constitution saving throw or fall unconscious for 10 minutes. This effect ends for a creature if the creature takes damage or someone uses an action to wake it.

LEGENDARY ACTIONS

The dragon can take 3 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. The dragon regains spent legendary actions at the start of its turn.

Detect. The dragon makes a Wisdom (Perception) check.

Tail Attack. The dragon makes a tail attack.

Wing Attack (Costs 2 Actions). The dragon beats its wings. Each creature within 10 feet of the dragon must succeed on a DC 19 Dexterity saving throw or take 13 (2d6 + 6) bludgeoning damage and be knocked prone. The dragon can then fly up to half its flying speed.

Wails of the Unborn. Humanoids within 60 feet of the horror that can hear it have disadvantage on Constitution saving throws to maintain concentration.

Magic Resistance. The horror has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

ACTIONS

Multiattack. The horror can use its Gaze. It then makes two claw attacks.

Claw. Melee Weapon Attack: +9 to hit, reach 5 ft., one creature. Hit: 14 (2d8 + 5) slashing damage.

Gaze. The horror makes one gaze at random, choosing one target it can see within 60 feet of it.

1. Gaze of Agony. The target creature must make a DC 15 Charisma saving throw, taking 36 (8d8) psychic damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.
2. Gaze of Lethargy. The target creature must succeed on a DC 15 Charisma saving throw. On a failed save, the target can't use reactions, its speed is halved, and it can't make more than one attack on its turn. In addition, the target can take either an action or a bonus action on its turn, not both. These effects last for 1 minute. The creature can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on itself on a success.
3. Gaze of Despair. The target creature must succeed on a DC 15 Charisma saving throw. On a failed save, the target becomes overwhelmed with despair for 1 minute, and has disadvantage on attack rolls, saving throws, and ability checks. The creature can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on itself on a success.

Vile Origins. The Coven Horror is the result of multiple witches who had made pacts with a demon and failed to live up to their end of the agreement. The witches were fused along with the wailing bodies of children that they had sacrificed in the name of that demon in order to constantly remind them of their failure. Each head of the horror is in control of the main trunk, but they will frequently snap at either of the two heads if they feel that the other is too close to their own head. The horror is left to wander the Abyssal realm, spreading agony and despair throughout. They will take any chance to escape to the prime material plane so that they can to spread terror and death, believing that fulfilling their original pact by killing anyone they come across will release them from their torment.

Foe of Demons. The witches that make up this monstrosity will always remember the demon that bound them together. While prone to quickly attacking the first thing they see in hopes that it will release their bond, the three witches will occasionally listen and help those who promise to show them to their demonic lord. Coven Horrors are fickle, each of the heads continually coming up with a way to free themselves, the most common choice being to kill those nearest to them in order to gain favor with their demonic binding. Demons fear these abominations, tending to steer clear of them throughout the Abyssal plane.

Fern Lizard

Fern Lizards are quick land omnivores with the body of a lizard and the upper torso comprised of two small talons, a small fanged mouth and beady eyes. The entirety of a Fern Lizard's body appears as though it is made of foliage. Capable of easily blending into its surroundings, Fern Lizards wait patiently for prey to come to them.

Patient Hunter:

Capable of standing immobile for hours, Fern Lizards wait for meals to stumble before them rather than waste energy hunting them down. Insects and plant life inspire them to voracious appetites. Fern Lizards are often seen slowly burrowing into tree trunks, using their acidic spittle to bore small holes to devour insects.

Prized Pet:

Whether caught young or raised from an egg, a Fern Lizard can be trained to serve as a companion. Considered good luck and useful spies for druids, Fern Lizards are often in their company. Nobility view these creatures as exotic additions to their home, investing large sums of money to acquire them.

Once trained, a Fern Lizard is a loyal and useful companion. It bonds with one master for life and serves that master to the best of its abilities. A Fern Lizard requires satiation of its omnivorous appetite. Prone to capture or kidnapping, masters must be careful when bringing Fern Lizards in public as they immediately draw attention to both themselves and their much desired pets.

Small Stewards:

Fern Lizards make their nests in heavy growths of foliage, well away from the eyes of predators. Establishing their territory as a colony, Fern Lizards work as guardians of their surrounding area. Removing the region of pestilence and danger, these lizards become a druid's ally.

Fern Lizards have been known to help those who support and care for their environment, acting as guides for lost travelers and providing sources of food to those in need. Alternatively, Fern Lizards are extremely aggressive and territorial to those who bring trouble to their home. Fern Lizards harry travelers, steal food and lead wanderers astray until the traveler flees or dies.

Hurl Energy. Ranged Weapon Attack: +14 to hit, range 60/240 ft., one target. Hit: 18 (2d8 + 9) damage of a type chosen randomly from the following: acid, lightning, fire, or cold.

Elemental Chaos (Recharge 5-6). The elemental makes one elemental chaos attack at random.

1. Earthquake. A seismic disturbance radiates from the elemental in a 100-foot radius circle. Each creature on the ground in that area must succeed on a DC 18 Dexterity saving throw or be knocked prone. Each creature on the ground that is concentrating must also succeed on a DC 18 Constitution saving throw or break concentration. The area becomes difficult terrain after the earthquake.

2. Fire Breath. The elemental exhales fire in a 60-foot cone. Each creature in that area must make a DC 18 Dexterity saving throw, taking 54 (12d8) fire damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.

3. Tidal Wave. A massive wave emanates from the elemental. Each creature within 60 feet of the elemental must succeed on a DC 18 Strength saving throw or be pushed up to 60 feet away from the elemental. On a success, the creature is pushed 10 feet away from the elemental.

4. Whirlwind. The elemental summons a 10-foot-radius, 60-foot high whirlwind centered on a point within 120 feet of it. Each creature in that area must make a DC 18 Strength saving throw. On a failure, a target takes 27 (6d8) bludgeoning damage and is flung up to 40 feet away in a random direction and knocked prone. If a thrown target strikes an object, such as a wall or floor, the target takes 3 (1d6) bludgeoning damage for every 10 feet it was thrown. If the target is thrown at another creature, that creature must succeed on a DC 18 Dexterity saving throw or take the same damage and be knocked prone. If the saving throw is successful, the target takes half the bludgeoning damage and isn't flung away or knocked prone.

LEGENDARY ACTIONS

The elemental can take 3 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. The elemental regains spent legendary actions at the start of its turn.

Hurl Energy. The elemental uses its Hurl Energy.

Harness Energy (Costs 2 actions). The elemental regains use of its Elemental Chaos.

Unstable Outburst (Costs 3 actions). The elemental loses control of its chaotic energies. Each creature within 30 feet of the elemental, including the elemental itself, must succeed on a DC 18 Constitution saving throw or take 21 (6d6) damage of a type chosen randomly from the following: acid, lightning, fire, or cold. A creature takes half damage on a success. The elemental has no immunity to the damage caused by this outburst.

Each creature in the squirrel's path must succeed on a DC 21 Dexterity saving throw or take 15 (2d6 + 8) bludgeoning damage and be knocked prone.

Might of Oaks (Costs 3 Actions). The squirrel goes into a frenzy, uprooting nearby trees and disrupting the earth around it. Each creature on the ground within 20 feet of the squirrel must make a DC 21 Dexterity saving throw, taking 24 (7d6) bludgeoning damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. The ground in that area becomes difficult terrain.

Gladeborn Rangers

The Gladeborn are a volatile guild, comprised more of sects and individuals rather than a united community. Capable of living exclusively in the wild and often more dangerous than any animal, Gladeborn care little for civilized worlds. Believing in a predator or prey mentality, Gladeborn come across as harsh, cold individuals, prone to leaving for hours simply to get away from their present company.

Circle of Nine. The origin of the Gladeborn, nine druids came together to create a future for their community. Each agreeing that the wilderness honed the perfect person, the Nine require their initiates to grow up in the wild. The Nine view society as a blight upon the land, looking to eventually return the world to the wild.

Scarred Childhood. As children, Gladeborn are taken from cities and villages and placed into the wild. Here, they are forced to grow and survive according to the desires of their druid mentor. This experience hardens a Gladeborn, making them distrusting and disconnected towards others. Out of place in civilized areas, Gladeborn react with violent outbursts when faced with difficult social situations.

His breathing was like a snarling beast. Her eyes flitted like a leaf. I knew these folk to be of the glade, born and raised.
– Kima Fathe Emissary of Aalom

Survival of the Fittest. Gladeborn take on a ritualistic belief of how the world works as they grow in the wild. Gladeborn members work to disrupt civilized communities, using anything in their power to promote a wild existence. Willing to sacrifice the natural world in order to fulfill this desire, Gladeborn are known as cold, reckless fanatics.

ACTIONS

Multiattack. The grave titan makes two greatsword attacks.

Greatsword. Melee Weapon Attack: +12 to hit, reach 10 ft., one target. Hit: 29 (6d6 + 8) slashing damage.

Hurl Zombies. Ranged Weapon Attack: +12 to hit, range 60/240 ft., one target. Hit: 30 (4d10 + 8) bludgeoning damage. After the attack hits or misses, 1d4 + 1 zombies arise adjacent to the target.

Grave Titan

A true success in the minds of necromancers across the world, Grave Titans are walking monoliths of the undead. Lumbering forward on its master's command, the Grave Titan leaves a trail of death and lurching zombies. The Grave Titan views the world as a wheat field – reaping and sowing death as it walks.

Abominable Creation:

Grave Titans form when powerful necromancers collect the bodies of numerous humanoids and a freshly slain giant. Amassing the corpses into a great mound atop the giant, the necromancers bind their energies to the mound, enriching it with a mass of negative energy. Rising from the mound, a Grave Titan begins to devour the corpses. Once the final body is consumed, the Grave Titan completes its metamorphosis. The bodies that reside in the Titan reanimate, seeking to escape their prison. The torn hole in the Titan's stomach quietly resonates with screams and cries as the restless zombies pull themselves free. Yet, any zombie that emerges from the Grave Titan are subject to the commands of the Titan's master.

Following their reanimation, Grave Titan's have little memory of their former lives. They understand the language of their master, but beyond that they do not think or act directly for themselves.

Master's Servant:

The necromancers who summon the Titan hold complete control over the being. Grave Titans follow their master or masters without question, moving with menacing grace. If left with no command, Grave Titans will wander towards the next living thing they see, desiring to bring death to the world.

Grave Titans are often employed as walking siege engines or guards to dark secrets. The Grave Titan's ability to continually spawn zombies, make them highly desired to those not opposed to bolstering their army's ranks.

Grove Guardian

A manifestation of nature’s own self-defense, the Grove Guardian travels through the wilderness, protecting the land and its inhabitants. Taking the shape of a wolf, the Grove Guardian uses its fangs and powerful magic to drive away anything that threatens its land.

Neutral Guardians. Grove Guardians do not think of things in terms of right or wrong, nor do they care for law. Emerging to protect the land it has been bound to, a Grove Guardian attacks all with zealous animosity. Only those who can convince it of their desire to protect the land are left alone. Druids are recognized by Grove Guardians but not exempted from their judgment, having to prove their loyalty to nature before a Guardian will ignore them.

Silent Sentinels. Prior to attacking, Grove Guardians will make their presence known to outsiders.

If outsiders do not demonstrate proper respect to the land or fail to acknowledge Grove Guardians in communication, the Guardians will attack.

Force of Nature. The land calls Grove Guardians to its aid. Their numbers increase according to the danger of the situation. Often only one Guardian will be called in defense against wandering outsiders, but a whole pack may appear in the wake of cataclysmic events.

Magic Resistance. The herald has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Aura of Decay. Negative energy radiates from the herald in an aura with a 120-foot radius. Any creature in that area can't regain hit points.

ACTIONS

Multiattack. The herald makes two attacks: one with its beak and one with its claws.

Beak. Melee Weapon Attack: +6 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 10 (2d6 + 3) piercing damage. If the target is a creature, it must succeed on a DC 14 Constitution saving throw or become diseased. While diseased in this way, the target takes 9 (2d8) necrotic damage at the start of each of its turns. The target can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the disease on a success.

Claws. Melee Weapon Attack: +6 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 14 (2d10 + 3) slashing damage.

Fetid Cloud (Recharge 5-6). A 20-foot-radius cloud of disease extends out from the herald. The cloud spreads around corners. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 14 Constitution saving throw or become diseased. While diseased in this way, a target can't use reactions, its speed is halved, and it can't make more than one attack on its turn. In addition, the target can take either an action or a bonus action on its turn, not both. A target can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the disease on a success.

The living embodiment of disease and decay, a Herald of Rot looks like the abomination of humanoid, vulture and goat. Eyeless sockets stare at prey as a constant cloud of putrid offal hangs about the demon.

If summoned, a Herald of Rot will fixate on a given or freely chosen target. Once fixated, the Herald will speak to its prey telepathically, detailing how it will bring decay and desolation to everything around the victim.

Vanguard of demon armies, a Herald of Rot is a living chemical arsenal. Serving more powerful demon lords, they are often seen guarding important structures or enhancing torture by their mere presence. Heralds of Rot are most commonly found in the service of Demon Lord Juiblex, but their services expand far from the noxious lord's control.

Infest (Recharge 6). One creature in the swarm's space must succeed on a DC 14 Constitution saving throw or become infested by the swarm; the swarm then disappears inside the host, and the target is incapacitated and loses control of its body. The swarm now controls the body but doesn't deprive the target of awareness. The swarm can't be targeted by any attack, spell, or other effect, and it retains its Intelligence, Wisdom, and Charisma. It otherwise uses the infested target's statistics, but doesn't gain access to the target's knowledge, class features, or proficiencies. The infestation lasts until the body drops to 0 hit points, the swarm ends it as a bonus action, or the swarm is forced out by an effect that removes disease like the lesser restoration spell. When the infestation ends, the swarm reappears in an unoccupied space within 5 feet of the body. The target is immune to this swarm's Infest for 24 hours after succeeding on the saving throw or after the infestation ends.

KOBOLDS

Kobold society is influenced by their lawful evil alignment. They will plan and dig mines industriously, while laying cruel traps for interlopers. If they must confront an enemy, they will mass their troops for an ambush. Among the monstrous humanoids, they are known for cunning plans; unlike many, they also share those plans among the tribe. General plans and goals are common knowledge, and detailed plans are shared with all who ask, to allow them to work fruitfully for the good of the tribe. Kobolds have a natural hatred of other non-draconic creatures because of mistreatment of their race.

Specialized Laborers. Though most kobolds are miners digging for the lost god Kurtulmak, a special few are chosen at birth for specific jobs, an even smaller group are marked at birth for greatness. Selected by the All-Watcher of the tribe these Kobolds fill roles unique to the tribe.

Tribal Society. Consisting of 10 to 15 families, tribes of kobolds can survive anywhere but tend to live in mines or deep forests where there is little light. The tribe's land covers about 10 square miles, when the tribe grows too large to support itself on its land, the tribe will split itself in two and half will migrate to other lands.

Scaled Pride. Most kobolds worship dragons, however dragons tend to see kobolds as pests and either ignore them or use them as fodder or slaves. Mountains with dragon lairs atop them are a sure place to look for kobolds.

Aged Wisdom. Kobolds are gerontocratic, the oldest is the wisest. Called the All-Watcher be it male or female rules His/Her tribe without question. Kobolds can live to be easily 1000 years old but most die long before that age.

Honor One's Kin. Honoring the dead is very important to kobolds and how varies from region to region. Some resort to cannibalism to ensure power stays in the tribe, others mummify and entomb the dead in mazes of tunnels. Dark forest kobold bury the dead to return them to nature.

Scaled Skin. Outsiders are rarely trusted in kobold lands, however others races with scaled skin are considered to be more trustworthy. Dragonkin, Snakefolk and even Bullywugs can trade and even negotiate with some tribes of kobolds. Most others can gain the trust of a tribe, but gnomes are hated and treated with extreme hostility.

Understood Law. Few in number, kobolds do have some rules they must follow in everyday life. Pranks are harshly considered taboo, this is connected to the loss of the main kobold deity Kurtulmak, the god of war and mining. Kobolds and gnomes have an instinctual hate of each other because of a "prank" played upon Kurtulmak by the gnomish deity Garl Glittergold. According to some kobold myths, Garl collapsed Kurtulmak's cave because the gnome god saw that they were likely to become the dominant race in the world. Murder of another member of the same tribe is forbidden, so many tribes favor exile to execution. Leading an outsider to the tribe's home is a grave crime in kobold law.

Kobold Bully

Thick sinuous muscle defines this Kobold, setting it apart from its wiry counterparts. Kobold Bullies stand with an air of confidence, bones of rivals hanging from their spears. Small black eyes glittering with malicious deviance show the harsh spirit that drives this creature.

Brute of the Pack:

Born physically larger and stronger than others in the tribe, a Kobold Bully fights its way through the social hierarchy. A Kobold Bully works as muscle for the tribe, serving as guards and vanguards in battle. What a Kobold Bully lacks in cunning, it makes up for in brutal strength, tending to stab first and ask questions second. Kobold Bullies incite rage among their tribes, acting upon jealousy towards those who seem better off than them.

KOBOLD HERO

Bearing a mark uncommon from the rest of its tribe a Kobold Hero acts with the knowledge of its eventual success. Trained beyond any other; equipped with the finest gear and fervent in the belief of destiny, these creatures are the face of kobold tribes. Worldly knowledge and years of adventure show upon their scaled face. A Kobold Hero can rally tribes together and bring upon the world a deadly and zealous foe. When a Kobold Hero emerges, the world is destined to change.

Marked for Destiny. When a Kobold Hero is born, they are marked. This marking varies from hero to hero, often appearing as a change in skin color or alteration of the eyes. These markings are recognized in kobold tribes as blessings from the Dragon Queen Tiamat. Immediately, kobolds marked are treated as vessels of destiny; raised, trained and pushed to fulfill the will of Tiamat.

Chosen of Tiamat. Unlike other kobolds, Kobold Heroes are above any social hierarchy. Their right to rule and command goes unquestioned by any tribe. At this command, squabbling tribes of kobold rally under their banner and go forth to aid the Kobold a Hero in its task. When Kobold Heroes appear, cities and towns neighboring kobold tribes tremble in fear of the impending armies these heroes create.

"Heroes have many fine qualities, Some races, however, fall short in places."

ACTIONS

Multiattack. The kobold makes two melee attacks.

Rapier. Melee Weapon Attack: +4 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 6 (1d8 + 2) piercing damage.

LEGENDARY ACTIONS

The kobold can take 3 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. The kobold regains spent legendary actions at the start of her turn.

Scurry. The kobold moves up to its speed without provoking opportunity attacks.

Stabby. The kobold makes one melee weapon attack.

Pocket Sand (Costs 2 actions). The kobold throws sand at a creature it can see within 5 feet of it. The target must succeed on a DC 12 Dexterity saving throw or be blinded until the end of the kobold's next turn.

Kobold Shaman

Scents of heavy herbs, the clattering of trinkets and the subtle whispering of a cunning mind mark the arrival of a Kobold Shaman. Imbued with the magic of their god Tiamat, Kobold Shamans rule the tribe, using guile and deception to keep their place. Kobold Shamans are frail but agile, their physical stature pushing them more to avoiding combat than getting into it themselves.

Rite of the Elements:

Kobold Shamans must display their connection to the dragon god Tiamat. Those chosen to become a shaman undergo a ritual of elements, being subjected to searing heat, deathly cold and noxious acid. Those who emerge from the ritual alive are awakened to the arcane energies of Tiamat.

Power of the Tribe:

Wielding Tiamat's magic, Kobold Shamans are the heart and mind of their tribe. Sitting on the top of the social hierarchy, Shamans delegate tasks in the tribe. Yet, their power is always tentative, as other kobolds are quick to grow agitated and envious. Kobold Shamans are quick to notice unrest in the tribe and are not above resorting to assassination or banishment to ensure their power remains intact. When faced with the coming of a Kobold Hero, Shamans are often slow or devious in their actions. While attempting to fulfill the will of Tiamat, Kobold Shamans stop at nothing to keep the power that they have attained.

Leonin

Leonin are tribal humanoids that reside in great plains and desert oasis. Their villages continually move, but are commonly found nearby watering holes, rivers or underneath massive trees.

Terrotorial Nomads. Leonin interact with other races on a strictly business like fashion. Fiercely territorial, their villages move throughout their domain, acting as scouts or defenders to any part that has been invaded. When unwelcome visitors are detected, the tribe sends an emissary to determine the nature of the visitors. If the visitor seems violent or malevolent the tribe will band together and drive them away. Traders are invited to speak with them, but never will they be allowed to enter the tribe itself.

Leonin hold a strict sense of traditional morality and are heavily rooted in honor. The acts of an individual do much in the eyes of Leonin. Ritualistic rites are performed among the tribe and when trade is conducted to test the moral mettle of an individual.

Leonin may leave the pride to become traveling merchants or hired guards. Still rooted in the spirituality of their pride, wandering Leonin often contend with those around them concerning personal thoughts and actions. Alliances made with Leonin are steadfast and unyielding. Fiercely loyal and driven to uphold their honor, Leonin tribes are almost never the ones to break or end an alliance. Traders who make initial deals with the Leonin always find a trading partner among the nomads.

The Way of the Pride: Working towards a sense of honor and traditional morality, Leonin base their understanding of others through individual acts. Tests are constructed to place young Leonin in difficult moral situations, testing both the ability to make decisions under pressure as well as to determine the cub's mindset. Leonin who fail to follow the Way of the Pride are further trained or eventually sent into exile, a dangerous way of life being too destructive to the pride as a whole.

Leonin Leaders. Leonin respect their leaders with a religious awe. Elders are chosen for either great deeds done or eventual age. Those imbued with magic are sent into study, learning how to curb magic to the Way of the Pride. At times, a Leonin will be born into the pride afflicted by a Rakshasa spirit. These Leonin grow to be powerful spellcasters who hold within them the seed of evil. Cunning and patient, these Leonin wait and hide, passing their pride's tests. If these Leonin become leaders, they will drive their pride to war, chaos or ruin.

PRAYKE

VARIANT: LUCK DRAGON FAMILIAR

Some luck dragons are willing to serve spellcasters as a familiar. Such luck dragons have the following trait.

Familiar. The luck dragon can serve another creature as a familiar, forming a magic, telepathic bond with that willing companion. While the two are bonded, the companion can sense what the luck dragon senses as long as they are within 1 mile of each other. Additionally, while the luck dragon is within 10 feet of its companion, the companion shares the luck dragon's Dragon Luck feature. At any time and for any reason, the luck dragon can end its service as a familiar, ending the telepathic bond.

Challenge 12 (8,400 XP)

Amphibious. The kraken can breathe air and water.

ACTIONS

Multiattack. The kraken makes three tentacle attacks, each of which it can replace with one use of Fling.

Bite. Melee Weapon Attack: +10 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 15 (2d8 + 6) piercing damage. If the target is a Medium or smaller creature grappled by the kraken, that creature is swallowed, and the grapple ends. While swallowed, the creature is blinded and restrained, it has total cover against attacks and other effects outside the kraken, and it takes 21 (6d6) acid damage at the start of each of the kraken's turns.

If the kraken takes 25 damage or more on a single turn from a creature inside it, the kraken must succeed on a DC 25 Constitution saving throw at the end of that turn or regurgitate all swallowed creatures, which fall prone in a space within 10 feet of the kraken. If the kraken dies, a swallowed creature is no longer restrained by it and can escape from the corpse using 10 feet of movement, exiting prone.

Tentacle. Melee Weapon Attack: +10 to hit, reach 15 ft., one target. Hit: 13 (2d6 + 6) bludgeoning damage, and the target is grappled (escape DC 17). Until this grapple ends, the target is restrained. The kraken has ten tentacles, each of which can grapple one target.

Fling. One Medium or smaller object held or creature grappled by the kraken is thrown up to 30 feet in a random direction and knocked prone. If a thrown target strikes a solid surface, the target takes 3 (1d6) bludgeoning damage for every 10 feet it was thrown. If the target is thrown at another creature, that creature must succeed on a DC 17 Dexterity saving throw or take the same damage and be knocked prone.

Lightning Field (Recharge 5-6). All creatures within 60 feet of the kraken must succeed on a DC 17 Constitution saving throw, taking 28 (8d6) lightning damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.

LEGENDARY ACTIONS

The kraken can take 3 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. The kraken regains spent legendary actions at the start of its turn.

Tentacle Attack or Fling. The kraken makes one tentacle attack or uses its Fling.

Release the Kraken (Costs 2 actions). The kraken removes any magical effects on itself that reduce its speed or cause it to be restrained, and escapes from any nonmagical restraints or being grappled.

Water Surge (Costs 3 actions). A strong current surges from the kraken. Each creature within 30 feet of the kraken must succeed on a DC 17 Strength saving throw or be pushed up to 30 feet away from the kraken. On a success, the creature is pushed 10 feet away from the kraken.

Ambusher. The killer has advantage on attack rolls against any creature it has surprised.

Relentless (Recharges after a Short or Long Rest). If the killer takes 20 damage or less that would reduce it to 0 hit points, it is reduced to 1 hit point instead.

Surprise Attack. If the killer surprises a creature and hits it with an attack during the first round of combat, the target takes an extra 14 (4d6) damage from the attack.

ACTIONS

Multiattack. The killer makes three melee attacks.

Shortsword. Melee Weapon Attack: +7 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 7 (1d6 + 4) piercing damage. If the target is a creature other than an undead or a construct, it must succeed on a DC 14 Constitution saving throw or lose 5 (1d10) hit points at the start of each of its turns due to a bleeding wound. Each time the killer hits the wounded target with this attack, the damage dealt by the wound increases by 5 (1d10). Any creature can take an action to stanch the wound with a successful DC 14 Wisdom (Medicine) check. The wound also closes if the target receives magical healing.

Monks of the Five Spires

A swift jab sent a jolt of pain through Kine's body. He grimaced, imagining every bar fight he had ever been in. The figure before him crouched low, balancing lightly on a single foot as the other poised, ready to lash out. Kine felt the sore spot where the monk had punched him - it burned slightly. He hefted his hammer and prepared to strike. The area where the monk had punched him suddenly flared with pain, feeling as though a hot brand had been placed there. Kine doubled over, hammer falling from his hand as he realized his mistake. This was not a brawling fighter; his opponent was a Monk of the Five Spires.

Trained to hone their magical Ki into dangerous burning attacks, the Monks of the Five Spires are well known for their martial brilliance. Capable of both taking and returning devastating blows, a Monk of the Five Spires practices asceticism and monastic values with fanatic fervor.

Order of the Five. Unlike others who take the path of a monk, Monks of the Five Spires are extremely selective about those who are permitted to join their way of life. Believing in strict discipline, physical prowess and the acceptance of the volatile emotions that drive them, Monks of the Five Spires push their initiates close to death, looking to ignite in them the spark of Ki that will give them their abilities.

Located near volcanoes, the Five Spires are formidable towers of stone and obsidian. Rising high into the air, these towers serve as a proving ground for Five Spire Initiates and homes to the Masters of the Five Spires.

Monks of the Five Spires view themselves as artisans of battle. In the face of other monastic paths, a Monk of the Five Spires understands that they may be inferior but when it comes to a fight, there is none better. Trained to accept radical emotions, Monks of the Five Spires often come off as explosive and extreme. These ranges of emotions are the key source of energy that drives the Monks of the Five Spires. They use these fiery emotions to enhance their Ki energies, manifesting them into searing pain.

Initiation. With the desire to become a Monk of the Five Spires, initiates go to a small town known as Blackwrath. Nestled at the base of the Five Spires, initiates must climb up a tower to be accepted as an apprentice. Those who fall could not overcome the first challenge. Each day following, Initiates of the Five Spires must climb the tower. Here they train, work and follow their master's missives. Each evening, initiates climb back down and sleep in Blackwrath. Only masters may live at the top of the Five Spires.

Initiates of the Five Spires often are sent on missions to expand their view of the world and uphold law. During this time, Initiates of the Five Spires are required to return half of their earnings to the Spires as well as new discoveries. Those who fail to do this are either rejected from the path or punished upon return.

Those who survive eventually attempt to join their masters. In a dangerous trial, the initiate swallows a draught of living fire, harvested from the nearby volcanoes. Wracked with pain, the initiate fights one of their masters. If they land a single hit upon the master, they are accepted as a Master of the Five Spires.

Morphlit

A Morphlit is small, weak and above all resilient. Creations of forgotten experiments, Morphlits adapt perfectly with their environment. They are wild, cunning creatures notorious for never failing to reach their victim. They embody a sense of wild brilliance long forgotten.

Ever-changing packs:

Smarter than their small size indicates, Morphlits often join together to hunt larger prey. Instinctual understanding allows Morphlits to switch into the form most needed for their environment as well as vary their forms while in a pack to gain the most success during a hunt.

Large foreclaws or bat-like wings grow along Morphlits as they travel, granting them easy access to even the most difficult of terrain. Morphlits share a complex hivemind, which was given to them at their creation. Small hierarchies concerning shape and personality emerge from each form a Morphlit takes.

Winged Morphlits take on an observer role in their society. Burrowing Morphlits are more aggressive, prone to competing against one another over a kill. Aquatic Morphlits tend to be more passive unless provoked or agitated.

Spawn of Ancients:

Long before the rise and fall of great empires, the upheaval of the earth and even before the pantheon of gods, Morphlits emerged as creations of great and mighty magic, formed to be durable test subjects to darker experiments. Seen as failures by their great masters, Morphlits were cast away, marked as inadequate.

Throughout the dynamic changes of the world, Morphlits thrived; the great magic that formed them acting as a shield against change. Still products of a deep desire, Morphlits continue to act in accordance to long imbued commands from their former creators.

Disassemble. When the battlesphere dies, it splits into 2d4 myr.

Reassemble. If the battlesphere moves through the space of an allied myr, it absorbs the myr and regains 7 (2d6) hit points.

ACTIONS

Crush. Melee Weapon Attack: +8 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 18 (2d12 + 5) bludgeoning damage.

Overrun (Recharge 5-6). The battlesphere moves twice its speed and can move through the space of any creature that is Medium or smaller. Additionally, the battlesphere's movement doesn't provoke opportunity attacks for the rest of the turn. When first entering a creature's space, the battlesphere can make a crush attack against that target. If the attack hits, that target must succeed on a DC 16 Strength saving throw or be knocked prone.

Claw. Melee Weapon Attack: +8 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 14 (2d8 + 5) slashing damage.

Piercing Screech (1/Day). Each creature within 60 feet of the owlbear that can hear it must succeed on a DC 12 Constitution saving throw or become incapacitated for 1 minute. A creature can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on itself on a success.

Pact Devil

Malicious whisperers, Pact Devils love to watch the inevitable demise of greatness that their deals bring. These devils observe their potential victims for a time, learning their desires and motivations before coming in contact with them. Appearing in dreams or a number of short interactions, these devils acquaint themselves with their target slowly. When their victim is at their most vulnerable, these devils appear to offer their dark bargain.

Pact Devils are highly defensive of their powers. If the subject of their deal refuses an offer, the devil seeks to kill the individual, leaving behind no trace of its own existence. Rarely will the devil be noticed by anyone other than the intended victim. In these cases, the devil will stop at nothing to kill bystanders, whether that is by their hands or the creature bound to them.

Its face was the mask of evil, every bone in my body told me to run, but I knew that there was power to be had and I was chosen to take it... the cost was too great.

– The Great Kalemus’ last speech to his audience.

INFERNAL PACT

A pact devil may convince a creature to exchange its soul for powerful infernal boons. Such boons may include but are not limited to: ability score improvements, new feats, or epic boons found in the Dungeon Master’s Guide (page 232). The pact lasts until the devil chooses to dismiss it or the devil dies. A wish spell can also end the pact.

If a creature bound by such a pact dies, the devil claims its soul, forcing it into servitude for eternity. The creature can’t be brought back to life after its soul has been claimed.

Additionally, while bound by the infernal pact, the devil can communicate with the creature telepathically over any distance, even from another plane of existence. Once per month, the devil may charm the creature as if using the geas spell. The creature automatically fails the saving throw to resist the spell, and it can’t be ended by any normal magic except for a wish spell, which also ends the pact.

Magic Resistance. The devil has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Infernal Pact. The devil can make an infernal pact with a willing creature, granting it special boons in exchange for its soul.

ACTIONS

Multiattack. The devil makes three attacks: two with its claws and one with its horns.

Claw. Melee Weapon Attack: +8 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 8 (1d8 + 4) slashing damage.

Horns. Melee Weapon Attack: +8 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 13 (2d8 + 4) piercing damage. If the target is a creature other than an undead or a construct, it must succeed on a DC 14 Constitution saving throw or lose 5 (1d10) hit points at the start of each of its turns due to an infernal wound. Each time the devil hits the wounded target with this attack, the damage dealt by the wound increases by 5 (1d10). Any creature can take an action to stanch the wound with a successful DC 14 Wisdom (Medicine) check. The wound also closes if the target receives magical healing.

Priest of Blight

Hideous and scarred, a Priest of Blight's skin reflects the twisted and diseased mind underneath. Bulbous pustules rise out of these priests, occasionally bursting and refilling as they walk. Their appearance rarely merits sympathy as a Priest of Blight brings the horrible ailments upon themselves.

Servants of Decay. Working their master's will, Priests of Blight attempt to bring decay and ruin upon the world. These preists work in the shadows, spreading their magic and concocted diseases through unknowing victims. They focus on destroying organizations at their core, targeting important figures or their servants, to give them the maximum amount of hosts for their infectious viruses.

Particularly bold Priests of Blight will masquerade as healers, heavily clad in robes to hide their own scars. These priests enter towns and villages, leaving them volatile masses of disease once their work is done.

Organization. Cults of Blight are centered in the Trickery and Evil domains. Their primary goal is to spread lies, disease and mayhem throughout the world. These cults are most often found in the dark corners of cities, nearby ruins or disguised as healers in hospitals. If discovered, Priests of Blight hide their secrets knowing that if they are destroyed many more will continue their diseases.

Priesthoods are made up of small cells of cultists who seek to infiltrate and defile systems around them. At the center of these priesthoods are Heralds of Rot, who act as reminders of a greater lord. Temples of these priests are often located in vile environments, open to any who unsuspectingly wander into them. Filled with traps and monsters that spread illness, cults watch gleefully as their victims decay away in their buildings.

Cult Rites. Priests of Blight target any who have been rejected by society, inflicted by terrible illness or who have lost any semblance of an orderly world to join their organization. Abducting these individuals, Priests of Blight wrack a horrific transformation upon their initiates.

Subjugated to the will of previous Priests of Blight, initiates are forced to ingest a concoction of their masters, which holds the seeds of disease and rot. Through this process, diseases devour the initiate's body, permanently altering their physical and arcanic state. Heavily scarred and in constant torment, a Priest of Blight sees the world as a place to defile until it too shares the priest's pain. Mortal foes of Priests of Blight are paladins and good clerics. Often, Priests of Blight will take risks to ruin any plans that these two factions may have set in motion.

LEGENDARY ACTIONS

The king can take 3 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. The king regains spent legendary actions at the start of its turn.

Squash. The king makes a squash attack.

Vine Lash (Costs 2 Actions). The king lashes out with entangling vines. Each enemy creature within 20 feet of the king must succeed on a DC 19 Dexterity saving throw or become restrained. A creature restrained by the vines can use its action to make a DC 19 Strength check, freeing itself on a success. The vines can also be attacked and destroyed (AC 12; hp 20; vulnerability to slashing damage).

Trick or Treat (Costs 3 Actions). The king scatters up to three pumpkins, which fall in unoccupied spaces within 20 feet of the king. RAT HERMIT

Rat Hermits find themselves as social outcasts. Exiled from normal civilization, they instead create their own world among the vermin they live close to. Rat Hermits dwell in sewers and cramped alleys, where they slowly build their small kingdom and seek revenge against those who shunned them. An individual who appeals to the Rat Hermit's sense of revenge is more likely to be treated nicely, provided they can give the Rat Hermit What they want. Rat Hermits are quick to distrust and add to their list. Those who fail to keep their word find a dangerous enemy.

"The worse moment wasn't when we found ourselves surrounded by rats...it was when we discovered that they were all thinking the same thing."
- Muttered by Camus, former guard of Tarvale

Unusual Kinship. Rat hermits have a special affinity for Ratfolk. They view them as friends and love to share stories and ale, often offering them secret ways into cities, forts and trade camps as payment for goods.

Information Broker. Though they are outcasted some Rat Hermits are greatly valued by criminal groups and thieves for the information they can gain from their swarm. Stealing keys, sniffing out traps, and vermin are easily ignored making them perfect spies.

Water Bound. The rusalka cannot willingly leave the body of water to which it is bound. If forcibly removed, the rusalka takes 11 (2d10) necrotic damage every minute until it returns.

ACTIONS

Charm. One humanoid the rusalka can see within 100 feet of it must succeed on a DC 15 Wisdom saving throw or be magically charmed for 1 hour. The charmed target must spend its turns trying to move as close to the rusalka as it can. The target can't take reactions, and for its action, it can use only the Dash action. If the target suffers any harm, it can repeat the saving throw, ending the effect on a success. If the target successfully saves against the effect, or if the effect ends, the target is immune to the rusalka's Charm for the next 24 hours. The rusalka can have only one target charmed at a time. If it charms another, the effect on the previous target ends.

Tresses. Melee Weapon Attack: +6 to hit, reach 10 ft., one target. Hit: 14 (3d6 + 4) bludgeoning damage and the target is grappled (escape DC 16) and pulled 5 feet toward the rusalka. Screech (Recharge 5-6). Each creature within 60 feet of the screecher that can hear it must succeed on a DC 12 Constitution saving throw or become stunned until the end of the screecher's next turn.

Selachian

With the upper body of a shark and humanoid arms and legs, Selachians mark their bodies with scars, showing familial houses, honorable hunts or simply to make themselves more menacing. Selachian ruthlessness is well known among coastal and aquatic communities. Raiding parties wash like waves over sand castles, leaving destruction in their wake, before disappearing back into the sea.

Selachian Settlements. Most commonly found in the cold northern regions of the world, Selachian settlements are built in coral reefs, rocky coasts or underwater cliffs bordering a deep abyss. Unlike the rival merfolk, Selachians care little for the passage of time, often living for years without interaction with the outside world. Selachians tend to delve into the darkest parts of the ocean, hunting in packs to track down and kill larger prey. They come to the surface to raid ships and nearby settlements to collect more materials for their homes. Selachians defend themselves with weapons taken from pirating or crafted from whatever materials were salvaged from shipwrecks, beaches, and dead undersea creatures.

Hired Muscle. Often, pirating crews or desperate merchants will hire a pair of Selachians to work for them. Money does little to inspire a Selachian, but promise of fresh blood or an epic prize will keep a Selachian in check for a time. Bought more for their brawn than brain, Selachians find their place as bodyguards or thugs, their bulky forms not well suited for nimble work.

"I NEVER THOUGHT WE WOULD LET ONE ON THE BOAT. THOSE BLACK, DOLL-LIKE EYES SCARE ME AS MUCH AS ITS ABILITY TO HUNT."
- JAROD KENTWORTH,
SECOND MATE OF SERENA

Pirates who convince these beasts to ship with them employ their strength as living grappling lines and frontline warriors. Sent to board the enemy ship first, Selachians fall into bloody frenzies, leaving behind a wake of destruction until either alone or killed.

Biggest Prize. Selachian communities believe in constantly outdoing one another. At birth, two Selachians are paired. For the rest of their lives, these Selachians wage a constant battle, heavily prompted by the community, to bring back the greatest prize. Often this prize is a kill or trophy but can also be feats of unlikely success. If a Selachian dies from this competition, their partner attempts to fulfill the pact for the other, marking it as the greatest prize they could achieve.

Mortal Enemies. Selachians and merfolk are mortal enemies. Years of raiding, destruction and war have carved a rift between the two species. Selachians also cannot abide merrow, who remind them too much of their less abyssal kin.

Maddening Roar (Recharge 6). The sire emits a mind-shattering roar. Each creature of the sire's choice within 100 feet of it and able to hear the roar must make a DC 18 Wisdom saving throw. On a failed save, a creature takes 44 (8d10) psychic damage and is afflicted with short-term madness (Dungeon Master's Guide pg. 259). On a successful save, the creature takes half as much damage and isn't afflicted with madness.

"I can't tell who is more loyal: the Paladin to their cause or the dog to their Paladin."
- Camus, Former Caravan Guard

Silverpaw Paladins

The Silverpaw guild works to maintain order and justice. Their initiates and veterans are well armed. Their dangerous animal companions trained to undertake any situation. The Silverpaw guild works as the symbol of loyalty and stoicism. Guild paladins show themselves as implacable stewards but rumor has told of wild and dangerous emotions stirring beneath a Silverpaw's stare.

The Legend of the Fey. The founders of the Silverpaw were halflings who, alongside their riding dog companions, stumbled into the Feywild. Suffering the harsh lessons of natural law, the paladins returned, vowing to never allow the world to transform into the dangerous Feywild. Their dog companions also took fey influences, becoming stronger and larger than normal canines. Every Silverpaw dog's lineage can be traced to those original companions and carry the legacy of the fey in their blood.

Initiation. New recruits to the Silverpaw guild are given a dog. While the dogs may vary in size and breed, most are riding dogs or large mastiffs. Expected to raise and protect their animal companion, Silverpaw initiates are then sent to fulfill the requests of the guild. If, at any time, an initiate's dog is lost during combat the new recruit is expelled.

Eventually, the initiate and their companion will take on a final challenge, being offered a chance to enter the Feywild for three days. If both the initiate and their companion emerge from the experience alive, they are promoted to champions of the Silverpaw guild.

Organization. The Silverpaw guild believes the world is teetering on the brink of chaos. Having seen first hand the influences of the Feywild, Silverpaw champions work to maintain order. Some Silverpaw members return from the Feywild influenced by the chaos of the plane. These members are employed as subtle shock troopers, working to enact Silverpaw desires without drawing attention to the Silverpaw themselves.

Hive Mind. All slivers within 100 miles of the queen are in constant communication via a telepathic bond. If one sliver is aware of a threat, they all are.

Queen of the Hive. All slivers within 120 feet of the queen have immunity to the charmed and frightened conditions.

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If the queen fails a saving throw, she can choose to succeed instead.

ACTIONS

Multiattack. The queen makes three attacks: one with her tail and two with her claws.

Claw. Melee Weapon Attack: +11 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 13 (2d6 + 6) slashing damage.

Tail. Melee Weapon Attack: +11 to hit, reach 15 ft., one target. Hit: 15 (2d8 + 6) bludgeoning damage.

Forced Evolution (Recharge 6). The queen targets a sliver that she can see within 120 feet of her. The target permanently transforms into a sliver creature of challenge rating 4 or lower. The target regains hit points up to its new maximum hit points.

LEGENDARY ACTIONS

The queen can take 3 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. The queen regains spent legendary actions at the start of her turn.

Tail Attack. The queen makes a tail attack.

Sliver Spawn (Costs 2 actions). The queen spawns a sliver of challenge rating 1/2 that appears in an unoccupied space within 5 feet of her.

Nurture the Hive (Costs 3 actions). All slivers within 30 feet of the queen regain 12 (2d8 + 3) hit points.

Pack Tactics. The skull has advantage on attack rolls against a creature if at least one of the skull's allies is within 5 feet of the creature and the ally isn't incapacitated.

Turn Immunity. The skull is immune to effects that turn undead.

ACTIONS

Bite. Melee Weapon Attack: +5 to hit, reach 5 ft., one creature. Hit: 5 (1d4 + 3) piercing damage, and the skull attaches to the target. If the target is Medium or smaller and the skull has advantage on the attack roll, it attaches to the target's face, and the target is also blinded while the skull is attached in this way. While attached to the target, the skull can attack no other creature except the target but has advantage on its attack rolls. The skull's speed also becomes 0, and it moves with the target. A creature can detach the skull by making a successful DC 12 Strength check as an action. On its turn, the skull can detach itself from the target by using 5 feet of movement.

Kiss of Undeath (1/Day). If the skull is attached to a creature's face, it inserts its proboscis into the target's mouth. The target must succeed on a DC 12 Constitution saving throw or take 10 (3d6) poison damage and become poisoned for one hour.

Truesong Guild

Individualistic at heart and neutral to the world around them, the Truesong guild is fickle and cunning, working as informants and turncoats. Masters of the arts and battle, Truesong guild members are as dangerous with their performances as they are with their weapons.

Guild Rites. Truesong guild members must become masters of their craft, centering their focus on professions of entertainment. Working as spies, humble positions that can easily work their way into courts or among common folk are a priority for Truesong members.

To enter the guild, performers must complete three tasks. The first is creating a song, dance or act that incites a crowd to act. The second is to acquire the service of a patron. Finally, initiates to the Truesong guild must defeat a master of the guild in single combat. Fighting to the master's chosen song, the two combatants follow the rhythm of the song. Those who miss a step fail to pass the test and must wait a month and a day to try again.

Organization. The Truesong guild operates with the desire for information and subtlety. Working as court bards or tavern performers, Truesong members embed themselves into society, gathering secrets and rumors.

Being individualistic, Truesong members rarely share their information, using it instead for personal needs or to propel their influence and bargaining power. Throughout the guild, members train in guile and subterfuge. Powerful lords will often enlist Truesong members as personal assassins or as spies, yet Truesong help comes with a heavy and often unreliable price.

Fickle Allies, Dire Foes. Truesong guild members are extremely cautious about their influence in the world. Working to gain influence while remaining anonymous, many Truesong members will find powerful patrons to sponsor them. Enraging a Truesong guild member has dire consequences as they may call upon the might of their patrons. Those who befriend a Truesong member may discover themselves abandoned should the Truesong member believe that their reputation or anonymity is at stake.

Challenge 5 (1,800 XP)

Rhythmic Fighting. The dirge can play songs while wielding a melee weapon in one hand.

ACTIONS

Multiattack. The dirge makes two melee attacks.

Warhammer. Melee Weapon Attack: +6 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 7 (1d8 + 3) bludgeoning damage, or 8 (1d10 + 3) bludgeoning damage if used with two hands to make a melee attack.

Heavy Crossbow. Melee Weapon Attack: +4 to hit, range 100/400 ft., one target. Hit: 6 (1d10 + 1) piercing damage.

Thunderous Crescendo. As a bonus action, the dirge begins to play a magical song. At the start of each of the dirge's turns, all enemy creatures within 30 feet of the dirge that can hear the song must succeed on a DC 14 Constitution saving throw or take 9 (2d8) thunder damage. Any creature that takes damage in this way loses concentration if it is concentrating. The dirge can maintain concentration to continue playing the song. If it loses concentration, the song ends.

Siege Beast. The tuskaloth deals double damage to objects and structures.

Trampling Charge. If the tuskaloth moves at least 20 feet straight toward a creature and then hits it with a gore attack on the same turn, that target must succeed on a DC 18 Strength saving throw or be knocked prone. If the target is prone, the tuskaloth can make one stomp attack against it as a bonus action.

ACTIONS

Gore. Melee Weapon Attack: +13 to hit, reach 10 ft., one target. Hit: 22 (3d8 + 9) piercing damage.

Stomp. Melee Weapon Attack: +13 to hit, reach 10 ft., one target. Hit: 31 (4d10 + 9) piercing damage.

Earthshake (Recharge 5-6). The tuskaloth pounds the ground with incredible force, causing a tremor. Each creature on the ground within 30 feet of the tuskaloth must succeed on a DC 18 Dexterity saving throw or be knocked prone. The tremor also deals 50 bludgeoning damage to any structure in contact with the ground in that area. A structure that drops to 0 hit points collapses.

Languages Eldrazi, telepathy 500 ft.

Challenge 30 (155,000 XP)

Innate Spellcasting. Ulamog's innate spellcasting ability is Wisdom (spell save DC 22). It can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:

At will: detect magic, dispel magic

3/day each: confusion, counterspell (9th level spell slot), weird

1/day each: divine word, feeblemind, plane shift

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If Ulamog fails a saving throw, it can choose to succeed instead.

Magic Resistance. Ulamog has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Magic Weapons. Ulamog's weapon attacks are magical.

Scour from Existence. When Ulamog reduces a creature to 0 hit points, that creature's body becomes a pile of white dust.

ACTIONS

Multiattack. Ulamog can use its Maddening Presence. It then makes six attacks: four with its fists, and two with its tentacles.

Fist. Melee Weapon Attack: +19 to hit, reach 20 ft., one target. Hit: 36 (4d12 + 10) bludgeoning damage.

Tentacle. Melee Weapon Attack: +19 to hit, reach 30 ft., one target. Hit: 28 (4d8 + 10) bludgeoning damage. If the target is a creature, it must succeed on a DC 20 Strength saving throw or be knocked prone.

Maddening Presence. Each creature of Ulamog's choice within 120 feet of it and aware of it must succeed on a DC 18 Wisdom saving throw or become afflicted with short-term madness (Dungeon Master's Guide pg. 259). If a creature afflicted with short-term madness fails its saving throw, it becomes afflicted with long-term madness. If a creature afflicted with long-term madness fails its saving throw, it becomes afflicted with indefinite madness. If a creature afflicted with indefinite madness fails its saving throw, it dies from psychological trauma. If a creature's saving throw is successful, the creature is immune to Ulamog's Maddening Presence for the next 24 hours.

LEGENDARY ACTIONS

Ulamog can take 3 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. Ulamog regains spent legendary actions at the start of its turn.

Grip of Desolation. Ulamog makes a fist attack. If the attack hits, the target is grappled (escape DC 20) if it is a Huge or smaller creature and Ulamog doesn't have four other creatures grappled. Until this grapple ends, the target is restrained and takes 4d10 psychic damage at the start of each of its turns.

Transgress the Mind (Costs 2 actions). Ulamog casts phantasmal killer, no concentration required.

Titan's Presence (Costs 3 actions). Ulamog casts banishment.

Magic Resistance. The titan has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Magic Weapons. The titan's weapon attacks are magical.

Well-Armed. The titan can take one reaction on every turn in a combat.

ACTIONS

Multiattack. The titan makes two melee weapon attacks.

Longsword. Melee Weapon Attack: +12 to hit, reach 10 ft., one target. Hit: 18 (2d10 + 7) slashing damage.

Blade Storm (Recharge 5-6). The titan swings its weapons in a whirlwind of steel. Each creature within 10 feet of the titan must make a DC 20 Dexterity saving throw, taking 18 (4d8) bludgeoning damage, 18 (4d8) piercing damage, and 18 (4d8) slashing damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.

REACTIONS

Parry. The titan adds 5 to its AC against one melee attack that would hit it. To do so, the titan must see the attacker and be wielding a melee weapon.

LEGENDARY ACTIONS

The titan can take 3 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. The titan regains spent legendary actions at the start of its turn.

Attack. The titan makes one attack.

War Cry (Costs 2 Actions). Each creature within 120 feet of the titan that can hear it must succeed on a DC 16 Wisdom saving throw or take 10 (4d4) psychic damage and have disadvantage on the next attack roll it makes before the end of its next turn.

Hold the Line (Costs 2 Actions). The titan gains 26 (4d12) temporary hit points.

Challenge 9 (5,000)

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If the werewolf fails a saving throw, it can choose to succeed instead.

Keen Hearing and Smell. The werewolf has advantage on Wisdom (Perception) checks that rely on hearing or smell.

Pack Leader. The werewolf's allies have advantage on melee attack rolls against any hostile creature within 5 feet of the werewolf.

Shapechanger. The werewolf can use its action to polymorph into a wolf-humanoid hybrid or into a wolf, or back into its true form, which is humanoid. Its statistics, other than its AC, are the same in each form. Any equipment it is wearing or carrying isn't transformed. It reverts to its true form if it dies.

ACTIONS

Multiattack (Hybrid Form Only). The werewolf makes three attacks: one with its bite and two with its claws.

Bite (Wolf or Hybrid Form Only). Melee Weapon Attack: +9 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 14 (2d8 + 5) piercing damage. If the target is a humanoid, it must succeed on a DC 14 Constitution saving throw or be cursed with werewolf lycanthropy.

Claws (Hybrid Form Only). Melee Weapon Attack: +9 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 16 (2d10 + 5) slashing damage.

LEGENDARY ACTIONS

The werewolf can take 3 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. The werewolf regains spent legendary actions at the start of its turn.

Leap. The werewolf moves up to its speed without provoking opportunity attacks.

Bark Orders. The werewolf chooses a friendly creature who can see or hear it. That creature can use its reaction to move up to its speed without provoking opportunity attacks.

Frenzy (Costs 2 Actions). The werewolf can make one claw attack against each creature within 5 feet of it.

Challenge 6 (2,300 XP)

Chilled Body. A creature that touches the wight or hits it with a melee attack while within 5 feet of it takes 7 (2d6) cold damage.

ACTIONS

Multiattack. The wight makes two battleaxe attacks. It can use its Life Drain in place of one battleaxe attack.

Battleaxe. Melee Weapon Attack: +6 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 7 (1d8 + 3) slashing damage plus 7 (2d6) cold damage, or 8 (1d10 + 3) slashing damage plus 7 (2d6) cold damage if used with two hands.

Life Drain. Melee Weapon Attack: +6 to hit, reach 5 ft., one creature. Hit: 10 (2d6 + 3) necrotic damage. The target must succeed on a DC 15 Constitution saving throw or its hit point maximum is reduced by an amount equal to the damage taken. This reduction lasts until the target finishes a long rest. The target dies if this effect reduces its hit point maximum to 0. A humanoid slain by this attack rises 24 hours later as a zombie under the wight's control, unless the humanoid is restored to life or its body is destroyed. The wight can have no more than twelve zombies under its control at one time.

Frost Breath (Recharge 5-6). The wight exhales a blast of frosty wind in a 15-foot cone. Each creature in that area must make a DC 15 Dexterity saving throw, taking 27 (6d8) cold damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.
