

DUNGEONS & DRAGONS LIVING FORGOTTEN REALMS

_____
(character name)

HAS RECEIVED STORY AWARDS FROM:
(cross out those not received)

CORE-I DRAWING A BLANK

CORE31 Paragon Friend of Westgate

You pursued the fearsome blank-faced spirits and rescued a number of citizens of Westgate who were facing a fate worse than death. Tales of your deeds spread quickly through the city, and you find that the attitude of Westgate's citizens has become more favorable towards you. Your interactions with the city's inhabitants are always affected by your reputation; perhaps now some opportunities may exist where there weren't any before.

This story object may have an impact on past and future Dragon Coast regional adventures and Core adventures set in and around Westgate.

CORE32 Contact with the Plaguechanged Thing

You defeated an alien threat lurking beneath the streets of Westgate. In doing so, you have made contact (of a sort) with an incredibly powerful psionic entity known only as the Plaguechanged Thing. This creature is not necessarily benign; its original nature has been so horribly transformed by the Spellplague that no one can really say what its purpose or intentions might be. The only thing that seems clear is that the Plaguechanged Thing and the Abolethic Sovereignty are not working together. Although its methods of communication are crude and confusing, the Plaguechanged Thing has imprinted a powerful image in your mind: a giant, terrifying obelisk, covered with writhing tentacles, floating above the Sea of Fallen Stars. You aren't sure what this portends, but you have a sense that you will find out... whether you want to or not.

This story object is the beginning of a Major Quest that will be resolved in future Core adventures.

DUNGEONS & DRAGONS LIVING FORGOTTEN REALMS

_____
(character name)

HAS RECEIVED STORY AWARDS FROM:
(cross out those not received)

CORE-I DRAWING A BLANK

CORE31 Paragon Friend of Westgate

You pursued the fearsome blank-faced spirits and rescued a number of citizens of Westgate who were facing a fate worse than death. Tales of your deeds spread quickly through the city, and you find that the attitude of Westgate's citizens has become more favorable towards you. Your interactions with the city's inhabitants are always affected by your reputation; perhaps now some opportunities may exist where there weren't any before.

This story object may have an impact on past and future Dragon Coast regional adventures and Core adventures set in and around Westgate.

CORE32 Contact with the Plaguechanged Thing

You defeated an alien threat lurking beneath the streets of Westgate. In doing so, you have made contact (of a sort) with an incredibly powerful psionic entity known only as the Plaguechanged Thing. This creature is not necessarily benign; its original nature has been so horribly transformed by the Spellplague that no one can really say what its purpose or intentions might be. The only thing that seems clear is that the Plaguechanged Thing and the Abolethic Sovereignty are not working together. Although its methods of communication are crude and confusing, the Plaguechanged Thing has imprinted a powerful image in your mind: a giant, terrifying obelisk, covered with writhing tentacles, floating above the Sea of Fallen Stars. You aren't sure what this portends, but you have a sense that you will find out... whether you want to or not.

This story object is the beginning of a Major Quest that will be resolved in future Core adventures.

DUNGEONS & DRAGONS LIVING FORGOTTEN REALMS

_____
(character name)

HAS RECEIVED STORY AWARDS FROM:
(cross out those not received)

CORE-I DRAWING A BLANK

CORE31 Paragon Friend of Westgate

You pursued the fearsome blank-faced spirits and rescued a number of citizens of Westgate who were facing a fate worse than death. Tales of your deeds spread quickly through the city, and you find that the attitude of Westgate's citizens has become more favorable towards you. Your interactions with the city's inhabitants are always affected by your reputation; perhaps now some opportunities may exist where there weren't any before.

This story object may have an impact on past and future Dragon Coast regional adventures and Core adventures set in and around Westgate.

CORE32 Contact with the Plaguechanged Thing

You defeated an alien threat lurking beneath the streets of Westgate. In doing so, you have made contact (of a sort) with an incredibly powerful psionic entity known only as the Plaguechanged Thing. This creature is not necessarily benign; its original nature has been so horribly transformed by the Spellplague that no one can really say what its purpose or intentions might be. The only thing that seems clear is that the Plaguechanged Thing and the Abolethic Sovereignty are not working together. Although its methods of communication are crude and confusing, the Plaguechanged Thing has imprinted a powerful image in your mind: a giant, terrifying obelisk, covered with writhing tentacles, floating above the Sea of Fallen Stars. You aren't sure what this portends, but you have a sense that you will find out... whether you want to or not.

This story object is the beginning of a Major Quest that will be resolved in future Core adventures.